STONE IS HOT.

Makes a Serious Charge Against One of His Opponents

Accuses Gen. Hardin of Trying to burn For the Senate.

Winchester, Ky., March 28. The most interesting development of the visit of Capt. W. J. Stone, who was here yesterday to speak, was the statement he made after his address, and in the presence of a number of friends who had gathered about the stand to congratulate him, that an effort had been made to pull him off the track. Capt. Stone used no name, but was understood that he referred to Gen. Hardin.

The Captain in his speech nied vehemently a charge that he had ever voted for gold bonds. After his speech he made the following statement to those around him.

The candidate for Governor who is the author of these whis-perings about my record on the money question is the same person who on February 2 called me off into one corner of the Willard Hotel, in Louisville, and asked me to withdraw from the race for the gu-qernatorial nomination, saying that he knew ho could win if 1 was that he knew ho could win it it was day night and much of the young clow-not on the track. In April an article of extraordinary interest and importance is rear-Admiral Sampson's full and frank miral Sampson's full and frank statement of the part taken by "The Atlantic Fleet in the Spanish War." Major-General Francis V. Green, one of the highest living authorities on modern warfare, gives a full ac-count from personal experience of the actual capture of Manila, and John T. McCutcheon describes the Surrender of Manila as viewed from Admiral Dewey's flagship. Mr. McCutcheon was on the bridge with bawey during the action.

The policy of the Ladies' Home Journal, in its religious depart-ment, seems to be always to engage the pen of the man most immediately prominent in the eyes of the re ligious world. Thus it has had the services of Mr. Beecher, Doctor Talmage, Doctor Parkhurst, Ian Maclaren, and now it will have Maclaren, and now it will have those of Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, the new pastor of Plymouth Church, in Brooklyn. Dr. Il-llis has giron the Journal a series of articles upon which he had been working for over a year previous to his Eastern call, and the first of these articles will be published in the next less of the working. The purious issue of the magazine. The series is all connected in thought, and presents the general subject of "The Secrets of a Happy Life."

Measures,

Shepherdsville, Ky., March 28.— The Hon. P. Wat Hardin, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, spoke here to-day in the Bullitt county court house.

The court house was crowded to the the court house can be county to the court house was crowded to the court house.

The court house was crowded to its fullest capacity, and cheer upon cheer greeted the various points made by the speaker. As the situation now is, Mr. Hardin is the strongest candidate before the voters of Bullitt county, and his friends say he is sure to get its delegate vote in the State Convencention. Mr. Hardin spoke with his usual case and fluency, and it was evident that the audience was almost unanimously in accord with him. Mr. Hardin said he had decided

Mr. Hardin said he had occided to run because he felt that he owed it to the party: he said that he wanted no diversions from the main issues embodied in the Chicago platform, The Goebel election law, McChol Railroad Bill and Chinn School Book Bill were not specified School Book Bill were not specified in his remarks, but it was plain that these were among the thingshe classified as diversions. He denied that while Attorney General he had employed Mr. James Helm and others to assist him in the dissease of this duties, assigne that and others to assist him in the dis-charge of his duties, saying that Gov. Knott and Gov. Buckner were the only ones authorized to secure extra legal services. He denied that he was the candidate of the corporations and railroads, and said that Mr. James Helm was his kinsman and Gen. Basil Duke his friend, but the Democracy of Ken-tucky was too manly to even ask of a candidate that he renounce the bonds of blood and friendship to win votes win votes.

He-concluded with a straightforward statement of his position, now and in the past, on the financial issue, and pointed to the sacrifice he had made in 1895, when the stand he took for silver caused him

As the chief interest at this time attaches to his views on the election bill, his remarks on that subject are given in full:

the ever active agencies of fraud and corruption, that some change is necessary to carry into full effect the principles as laid down above. However much it might enhance the chances of those who are now seeking the support of the party to inject these false issues into the canvass, thereby diverting public attention from the real questions involved, insamuch as the people in their conventions lately assembled and by almost universal. in their conventions lately as-sembled and by almost universal expressions have indicated that such course is contrary to their judgment, and is not in accord with mine. I have thus far held aloof from these controversies. The enemies of the Chicago platform would be delighted to see it plas-tered allover with special and re-dundant isues. Those who have at best but a weak footing on the nat-ional platform would naturally come with special pleas and seek to sub-stitute their assumed merit on some particular measure for their weakparticular measure for their weakparticular measure for their weak-ness and demerits on the great dec-laration of principles contained therein which to-day hold together seven million of Democratic voters. They would love to select the

Work Truly,
R. E. COOPER,
TRALE, COOPER & CO.

On the night of March 15, 1699, while the storm was raging without, the spirit of Mrs. Mary A. Gooch calmly and peacefully took its flight to the God who gave it. Mrs. Gooch was the widow of Elijah Gooch, to whom she was married November 10, 1843, and who died May 19, 1861. Mrs. Gooch was Gooch had been an invalid for many years, during which time, she bore her affliction with patience and for-titude, under the faithful and devoted care of her daughters who have in their great grief, the sym-pathy of many friends. Her pro-tracted illness elicited more fully her patience and submission under her patience and submission under suffering. For many days she had a premonition that she would soon be "at home beyond the river." Her chief thought was of God, whose spirit graciously abode with her, and prepared her heart for the transition. With Christian faith and home and the saints' blessed asand hope and the saints' blessed as rance, she continued in joy and ace, until the summons came to cross over and be with God. While the shadows of sorrow have gathered over the homes of her disgathered over the homes of her dis-consolate children, hers is one of joy and brightness. Mrs. Gooch was very loyal to her friends and sympathized with all who suffered and sorrowed. Never has the writer heard her say anything un-kind of any one. Her bright smile of welcome did one so much good, and will always live in our hearts. "Her files work is done, The constict is ended, The alpro began."

GOSPEL MEETINGS.

At the Universalist Church March 31 to April 9 Inclusive.

Universalists of this city and vicinity will hold a series of meetings the first of April. Rev. W. H. McGlanfiln. D. D., of Atlanta, Ga., has been engaged to assist the pastor in their meetings. He is one of the leading ministers of the Universalist church in the South. It may be well to say, while he firmly stands for his faith, he has a charlable regard for all who differ from him in religion. Those who would ascertain a clearer and an unbiased view of Universalism, cannot afford to lose the opportunity of hearing him. To add to the enjoyment of the meetings, will be good music being prepared for the occasion. Friends of the cause are removed the presence of the cause are fort to attend all services. Evening services at 7:30 p. m. A most cordial invitation is given to every body to attend.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours: a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

BIG CONCERN.

Has Been in Successful Operation for Nearly Half Century,

In to-day's Kentuckian appears ne advertisement of that old reliathe advertisement of that old relia-ble institution of S. Hodgson, mar-ble and monument importer and dealer, Clarksville, Tenn., and the attention of those called to the same.

This concern has been in success ful operation for nearly half a century and always gives satisfaction.

An immense stock is carried and all the latest designs are turned out with promptness and dispatch. Mr. Hodgson does a very large bus-iness and has a nice lot of orders for spring delivery in Hopkinsville

SEASON OF 1899.

To Our Friends: Another season of send time is fast approaching, and the wise and pundent farmer will spain use the old and favorably known JONES BRANDS or BONE and ANIVAL MATTER FERTILIZERS, that have for many years done their full datay also applied to both Spring and Fall crops. The use of commer ial Fertilizers is almost universal, and the experience of many teras has prosent conclusively that ANIMAL MATTER FERTILIZERS are the most complete coart food known, and the fact of putting ACID PHOSPIHATE ROCK in a long and branding it 'DIS SOLVED BONE" does not make it quinnel matter. Homest strictly pure Animal Matter Fertilizers cost more than rock goats because they are worth more, and we ask that you remember this feet. Our goods go not under our foundation and parts of the follows and Kee a kt, we fire our goods on their merits, and refer with great sate least in their most excellent reputation in all parts of the follows and Kee a kt, where they are extensively used. We respectfully urge out if yes the celebrated Jones Fertilizing Co'S goods a trible on but Spring of Catterron, and we know sat infactory results and future cultins with returning fall w.

SAM'S STRIKE.

By H. A. KEMBLE.

Sam lived on a farm with his folks not far from Philadelphia. His fa-ther, Mr. Watson, was a very intel-ligent man, and often told Sam to sad the daily papers, so that he could understand what was going on in the understand what was going on in the country.

Sam did so, and for a boy of 11 years was pretty well up in the happenings of the outside world. If there was one thing the hoy lated, it was being pulled out of his comfortable bed carly in the morning to help feed and water the cattle, draw water for his mother and perform various other of the little odd jobs which, according to boyish ideas, go to make a boy's life miserable.

which, according to boyish ideas, go to make a boy's life miserable.

About this time the papers were full of news about strikes and strikers, and Sam followed these up with greateare. In fact, his mind now ran almost entirely in this direction. Even when he went fishing down hy the old black hole, where he always caught loads of suckers and catties, he couldn't scare up a bite, "for," he growled, "them fish havestruck, too."

In school several times Sam thought of going on a strike when parsing came around. He hated parsing, but upon looking at the heavy ruler on the tencher's deck he thought he wouldn't for jint same ruler might go on a strike, and he kneek hor he would fuel if there was no arbitration committee between him and the ruler. He'd been here before.

him and the ruler. He'd been therebefore.

One afternoon Sam came back discipated from one of his fishing triys, for he had-only caucht one pour little sunny, and had lost his hook trying to pall in an old tomato can under the impression that it was a "slappin big sucker."

"He was disgusted with living, and after supper sat down on the hack porch, with his face in his hands and clows on his knees, "thinkin?" By and by he jumped up, exclaiming:
"I aim't going to get up to -morrow morning: I'm going to strike. Don't the papers say us children requires more sleep than grown-up folks, hey? Didn't pop tell me to always read the papers? What's the good of reading if you don't believe?"

Accordingly, he went off to bed determined to strike the next morning.

Sam lay in bed, trying to aleep again; but it was no go. The birds seng loudly outdoors, and the fresh morning air came blowing in his window, and altogether he didn't seem to enjoy lying in bed as he thought he would to enjoy lying in bed as he thought he would.

After squirming all around the bed for a couple of hours, making a tent out of the covers by poking his feet up for poles, lying on his back and seeing how near he could come to touching the headboard with his feet, and various other bedchamber gymnastics, he concluded to go down to breakfast. Upon entering the dining-room he didn't see any signs of his expected repast.

"Say ma, where's my breakfast?"
"Breakfast," said his mother—"breakfast? Why, you've struck. You can't get any breakfast here. When hands strike they boe all claim on the firm: I'm sorry, but if you can't work on our terms I'm sure we can't do anything for you."

At this moment in comes the head of the firm, Mr. Watson, with an armlead of wood and a scuttle of coal. Somehow or other Sam didn't feel right, for this was his work, and he right, for this was his work, and he knew that his father worked hard all day.

"Belong to the Knights of Rest, hey, my boy?" laughed his father.
But Sam didn't smile—only slid out of the room and kept out of the way until schooltime. As the morning advanced. Sam began to feel hollow under his jacket. At noon he found that he had forgotten his lunch; or, rather, his mother had not prepared any.

The other boys, however, took out big pieces of pie and nice brown doughnuts and nunched them, while Sam gree bungier and hungrier, and after awhile moved off where he couldn't see them eat.

Oil, what a vacancy he seemed to have under his jacket. He felt as if he could eat the stale breach his mother threw to the chickens.
"I wonder if real strikers get hungry?" mused Sam. "Blamed if I can hold out much honger."

young striker in his seat, pale and nervous.

As the hour of closing neared, Sam, felt very faint and sick. It seemed to him as if his stomach would forget how to work, having had nothing to practice on for so long.

"Phew! what a long day!" Sam thought, as he walked slowly home with his hooks over his shoulder. "Oh, but I'm hungry! I wonder lifthem poor little duffers what sells papers in town ever feel like this? Jiminy, I'll buy papers from 'em every time I have any money!" Filled with this philamthropic idea, he reached home in time to smell the cooking going on in the kitchencoffee, fried potators sizzling and sputtering.

"My, how good they do smell!"

thought Sam.

About a quarter of an heur before supper time Mrs. Watson saw a wan, hangry boy, with hig eyes, gazing in through the window paines upon the table, with its snowy lines, flaky bread, ras-pherry jam, gelden butter and other delicacies.

She thought she heard a soh, and was sure she saw one hig trar after monther chains do not have been saw one by the same force.

The poor boy's hungry eyes lit up, and how that bowl be afme empty so quickly was a mystery.

'Another followed, and another; then came a slice of cold ham, which had just followed the rest, when he heard his mother say:

"Hish! here comes your father; run to bed!"

Sam quickly obeyed her and was soon in his own room.

loss of work, doctor's bill and discouragement.

One of the earliest and one of the most infallible indications of failing in nervous strength is the inability to sleep soundly.

No fact is more clearly established than that sleep repairs the loss of sleep deranges the health more quickly and more seriously than any other privation the body can suffer. The great effort, then, of every poor sleeper should be to strengthen the nerves. The fact that hundreds of men and women in every community have been cured of insomnia by Paine's celery compound is used the gain from day to day is plainly nofficered that hundreds of men and women in every community have been cured of insomnia by Paine's celery compound is used the gain from day to day is plainly nofficery to more discouraged by the proposed of the propos
